

Exhibit B

DEFINITIONS:

Food or Refuse shall mean any item intended for human or domestic animal consumption including its container, or the refuse from the preparation, consumption and cleanup of the same.

Bear Attractants shall mean any item that may attract bears such as, but not limited to, food, domestic animal or livestock food, refuse, bird feeders, cooking utensils and equipment, personal care products, and coolers.

Bear Resistant Manner shall mean storage of food, refuse, and/or bear attractants inside a hard-sided vehicle or camper; inside an approved bear-resistant container; or suspended at least ten (10) feet above the ground and four (4) feet from any tree, post or other vertical support.

Bear Resistant Container shall mean a securable container or vehicle constructed of a solid, non-pliable material, that when secure or under stress will not have any cracks, openings, lids or hinges that would allow a bear to gain entry by breaking, biting or clawing. All vehicle windows and doors must be completely closed for a vehicle to be considered a Bear Resistant Container.

Developed Recreation Site shall mean any area which has been improved or developed by the Forest Service for recreation including, but not limited to, campgrounds, trailheads, and picnic areas.

Recreation sites occupied under Special-Use Permit shall mean any temporary or permanent structures and other improvements associated with occupancy and use of the National Forest System that is authorized by the Forest Service including, but not limited to, recreation residences, outfitting camps, cow and sheep camps, organization camps, lodges, hotels, resorts, rental cabins, mining cabins or improvements, and/or livery stables.